ABOUT

Jackson Cannon is a Guntersville, AL native that has been playing music for practically his whole life. With being exposed to forms of rock, bluegrass, and gospel at a young age, Jackson found his sound in what would be considered modern country music. With such a diverse set of influences such as Ricky Skaggs, Van Halen, and Luke Combs: Jackson was able to create an interesting sound that combines forms of music that usually stands alone.

Jackson really found himself in songwriting, and has already made quite a name for himself in the writing world. Jackson has been writing for over five years now, with over 500,000 streams as a feature songwriter, including songs such as "Rest of Texas" by Cian Pedersen and "Colder" by Ethan Wooten, which charted at #71 on the iTunes Country charts.

Jackson released his debut song, "Dirt," in the fall of 2021, which has reached over 30,000 streams across multiple platforms. Jackson's second single, "Heart Made of Vinyl," released in the Spring of 2022 and has appeared on country music playlists such as the Up.Star "Gold Standard" playlist. Jackson's latest single, "Honkytonk Education," landed him a spot on the Country Pickin's "Country Up-and-Comers" playlist. With more music on the way, Jackson is sure to make waves in 2023 and beyond!
